Wayward Route

Welcome to the Chihuly Garden and Glass Museum! Although Dale Chihuly exhibits his art all around the world, this museum is his largest and most comprehensive collection, which is fitting since he was born in the Pacific Northwest in Tacoma, Washington. It is also fitting, given this location, that this museum is the only Salmon-Safe certified exhibition in the United States.

Much of his art within this collection is inspired by nature, with many flower glass pieces in the garden. Near the gift shop, there is a flower installation labeled "Sonic Bloom"- how many flower structures are there?

Answer: _____

Welcome to the Space Needle! Originally built for the 1962 World's Fair to fit "The Age of Space" theme, this tower stands at 605 feet tall and has the world's first and only revolving glass door.

Outside of the entrance, there is a checkered art piece accompanied by a plaque with a land acknowledgement. Who is the artist of this piece?

Answer: _____

Welcome to the Seattle Central Library! This building is 11 floors, home to over 1 million books, and contains a unique "Book Spiral" display style that shelves the entire nonfiction collection in a continuous, wheelchair-accessible run from Levels 6 through 9.

Besides the library's unique architecture, this branch is home to an extensive art collection specific to the Pacific Northwest. Local artists Margaret Greer has a series of featured sculptures in the Children Center. Name one of the pieces.

Answer: _____

Bonus: If you want to explore, you're welcome to name more than one animal sculpture featured in the children's center. You'll get a point per animal!

Looking for other cool places to visit in Seattle and open to a bit of a trek? We recommend the following locations:

Center for Wooden Boats

Gasworks Park